A Hampton Roads Community Project

The fate of the American experiment in self-government depends in no small part on the store of civic virtue that resides in the American people. – Task Force on Character Education in the Social Studies

Mission Statement:

Constitutional Conversations is a community-based education project designed to send law students into the community to educate citizens about their civic rights and duties. The goal is to inspire students and adults, alike, to become active participants in the democratic process. Instruction in the history and development of our fundamental Constitutional rights is an indispensable foundation for effective civics training for all Americans. It also serves as the basis for the unique engine of human change.

About Constitutional Conversations:

Our instructional program is divided into three separate workshops, one for each of the following groups: elementary school students, middle and high school students, and parents & adults. Workshops will be hosted on a monthly basis at the Williamsburg Regional Library.

The principal aims of the Constitutional Conversations initiative include:

1. Promoting an understanding of how a constitutional government operates.
2. Fostering a reasoned commitment to the fundamental values and principles enshrined in our nation's founding documents, including the Declaration of Independence, U.S. Constitution, and Bill of Rights.
3. Promoting informed and responsible participation in civic life, emphasizing the impact citizens can have on policy-making at all levels of government.

Please join us in our effort to start a national conversation about the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Together, we can shape the future of our nation's Constitutional narrative.
